Undergraduate Advising, Winter 2017, UCSB Computer Science

Amr El Abbadi

Dr. Amr El Abbadi is a Professor and Undergraduate Adviser in the Department of Computer Science. Dr. El Abbadi joined the Department in 1987. His PhD is from Cornell. His research interests include: Fault-tolerant distributed systems; Distributed Databases, Operating Systems, Cloud, and Social Networks.

Christopher Hall

Chris Hall is a graduating Ph.D. student in the Department of Computer Science. Chris spent a total of nine years at UCSB, first in the CS BS/MS program and now in the PhD program. Chris did summer internships with the US government and with Google. Currently, Chris works in the Four Eyes lab with Tobias Höllerer. Chris researches User-Empowering Software Infrastructures, supporting computer literacy.

Tobias Höllerer

Dr. Tobias Höllerer is a Professor in the Department of Computer Science. Dr. Höllerer joined the Department in 2002. His PhD is from Columbia University. His research interests include: Human computer interaction; virtual and augmented reality; computer graphics; wearable and ubiquitous computing; visualization and social computing.

Chandra Krintz

Dr. Chandra Krintz is a Professor in the Department of Computer Science. Dr. Krintz joined the Department in 2001. Her PhD is from the University of California, San Diego. Her research interests include: automatic and adaptive compiler, programming language, virtual runtime, and operating system techniques that improve performance and battery life, as well as programming language and runtime support for cloud computing

Diba Mirza

Dr. Diba Mirza is a teaching-track faculty (LPSOE) in the Department of Computer Science. She joined the department in 2017. She received her PhD in Computer Engineering from the University of California, San Diego. Her primary interest is to help all students, specially those in the early years of the undergraduate program realize their full potential and discover the joy of learning. Her research interest is in embedded systems with application to cyber-physical systems.

Yan Shoshitaishvili

Yan Shoshitaishvili is a graduating PhD student in the UCSB Computer Science Department. Yan did a BS in Computer Science at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute and worked at Wells Fargo before coming to UCSB for his Ph.D. Yan works in the Computer Security lab with Giovanni Vigna and Christopher Kruegel. Yan works in the area of Cybersecurity, researching ways to hack and protect cyberinfrastructure.

Jianwen Su

Dr. Jianwen Su is a Professor in the Department of Computer Science. Dr. Su joined the Department in 1990. His PhD is from USC. His research interests include: Database systems, theory, and applications.

Office: HFH 2161
Email: su at cs.ucsb.edu

Subhash Suri

Dr. Subhash Suri is a Professor in the Department of Computer Science. Dr. Suri joined the Department in 2000. His PhD is from Johns Hopkins University. His research interests include: algorithms, networked sensing, data streams, computational geometry, and game theory.

Office: HFH 2111
Email: suri at cs.ucsb.edu

William Wang

Dr. William Wang is an Assistant Professor in the Department of Computer Science. Dr. Wang joined the Department in 2016. His PhD is from Carnegie Mellon University. His research interests include Natural Language Processing, Machine Learning and Deep Learning, and Artificial Intelligence.

Office: HFH 1115
Email: william at cs.ucsb.edu

Yuan-Fang Wang

Dr. Yuan-Fang Wang is a Professor in the Department of Computer Science. Dr. Wang joined the Department in 1987. His PhD is from the University of Texas at Austin. His research interests include 3D computer vision, especially in developing robust, efficient and easy-to-use CV algorithms and systems, with a research objective to benefit the society at large.

Rich Wolski

Dr. Rich Wolski is a Professor in the Department of Computer Science and co-founder of Eucalyptus Systems Inc. Dr. Wolski joined the department in 2001. His Ph.D. degree is from the University of California at Davis. Rich has led several national scale research efforts in the area of distributed systems and is the progenitor of the Eucalyptus open source cloud project.

Ben Zhao

Dr. Ben Zhao is a Professor in the Department of Computer Science. Dr. Zhao joined the Department in 2004. His PhD is from UC Berkeley. His research interests include: networking, security and privacy, distributed systems, simulation and modeling. These days, he spends a lot of time gathering, mining and analyzing online social networks.
